CERTIFICATE COURSE IN

ADVANCED CLINICAL TRIALS AND PHARMACOVIGILANCE PRACTICES

PRINCIPAL

SWAGAT LOKNETE SHRI DADAPATI PHARATE
COLLEGE OF PHARMACY
Randevegan Pharala, Tal. Shirur, Dist. Pune 412211

COURSE NAME: A CERTIFICATE COURSE IN ADVANCED CLINICAL TRIALS AND PHARMACOVIGILANCE PRACTICES

The present Certificate course of clinical trial and pharmacovigilance has been design in such a way to make all pharmacy students mindful and market ready for the opportunities available for the said subjects.

The sequence of courses, Design and Conduct of Clinical Trials and pharmacovigilance, is designed with the intent that the student takes both classes. In Design and Conduct of Clinical Trials and pharmacovigilance, the student will learn the ethics, principles and conduct of clinical trials for medical research.

The protection of study participants and the need for equipoise will be covered, including regulatory restrictions and the latest patient privacy regulations for the dissemination and use of data associated with the participants in clinical trials and pharmacovigilance. Various study designs will be discussed. The importance of equipoise, informed consent, and the use of intent-to-treat analysis will be emphasized.

Data collection and management for the conduct of clinical trials and pharmacovigilance will be briefly addressed. The roles of the Institutional Review Board (IRB), Data Monitoring Committee (DMC) and in the approval and review of ongoing clinical trials will be discussed. Student will be guided to improve their personality and make them aware about the market scenario.

COURSE NAME: A CERTIFICATE COURSE IN ADVANCED CLINICAL TRIALS AND PHARMACOVIGILANCE PRACTICES

The present Certificate course of clinical trial and pharmacovigilance has been design in such a way to make all pharmacy students mindful and market ready for the opportunities available for the said subjects.

The sequence of courses, Design and Conduct of Clinical Trials and pharmacovigilance, is designed with the intent that the student takes both classes. In Design and Conduct of Clinical Trials and pharmacovigilance, the student will learn the ethics, principles and conduct of clinical trials for medical research.

The protection of study participants and the need for equipoise will be covered, including regulatory restrictions and the latest patient privacy regulations for the dissemination and use of data associated with the participants in clinical trials and pharmacovigilance. Various study designs will be discussed. The importance of equipoise, informed consent, and the use of intent-to-treat analysis will be emphasized.

Data collection and management for the conduct of clinical trials and pharmacovigilance will be briefly addressed. The roles of the Institutional Review Board (IRB), Data Monitoring Committee (DMC) and in the approval and review of ongoing clinical trials will be discussed. Student will be guided to improve their personality and make them aware about the market scenario.
